Don't Forget, Dear Counsel

When filing a document that should be restricted, please remember the three different levels of restriction. Additionally, please note that it's important to only select the appropriate restriction level that best suits your needs when E-filing.

The levels of restriction are:

- Non-Public (can be filed via hard copy or E-filing): Document is only available to all case parties, judge's chambers, and clerk's office staff.
- Ex-Parte (can be filed via hard copy or E-filing): Document is only available to the applicable party, judge's chambers, and clerk's office staff. Filer may select other case participants to receive access at time of E-filing (e.g. United States Attorney may give access to any defendant in a multi-defendant case.)
- Sealed (cannot be E-filed): Document is only available to judge's chambers and clerk's office staff. Can only be filed via hard copy brought to the clerk's office in a sealed envelope with an attached cover page noting the case name, number, and pleading title.

Also, please remember that you must have leave to file any restricted documents in civil cases through motion of the Court.

Ensure correct spelling, no abbreviations, and refrain from repeating words. For instance: "Notice by Defendant United States of America Notice of Withdrawal of Counsel." Do not reuse the term "Notice."

As always, if you have any questions regarding the filing of a restricted document, please contact the clerk's office at 307/433-2120 (Cheyenne) or 307/232-2620 (Casper) prior to filing. We are always happy to answer any questions and/or assist with E-filing procedures.
